

DAILY INTER LAKE

www.dailyinterlake.com

WEDNESDAY

MAY 29, 2019 | $1.00 | Serving the Flathead Valley since 1889

COMMUNITY GIVING

PICTURED FROM left are Kobe restaurant owner Mason Ma, Casa for Kids Advocacy program manager Cindy Basnett, Dream Adaptive Recreation director of development Naomi Morrison, and Kobe restaurant manager Brittany Sago.

Restaurant donates to nonprofits

Kobe Steak and Sushi in Kalispell recently presented a check and cash donations of $5,069.60 each for Dream Adaptive Recreation and Casa for Kids Flathead and Lincoln counties. The overall donation totaled $10,139.20.

One hundred percent of sales May 20 were donated equally between both organizations to support children in the Flathead Valley who benefit from these two nonprofits. DREAM Adaptive Recreation and Casa for Kids are grateful for this generous gift.

period, will be about a third less water volume this year at 800,000 acre feet, due to the lack of water, she said. There will still be a pulse, but smaller than it was previously.

Jim Dunnigan, a researcher with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks, shared data on various fish growth in the Kootenai River. Dunnigan found that the growth rate of fish decreased as they get bigger while the younger ones had higher growth rates.

“What really kind of surprised us was how steep this was — for these larger fish” he said.

Higher water discharge from September to November correlated with more and better fish growth, he said. Also, the